Laura Lee Stay Bradshaw specializes in figurative sculpture. She received a Master of Fine Arts degree in 1990 from Brigham Young University. She is known for making the human experience iconic. Themes of celebration and joy run through her work. Her sculptures enhance space i.e. gardens, public plazas, and water features. Making the world a more beautiful place to live is her goal. Notable works include Martha Hughes Cannon, an eight-foot bronze monument at the Utah State Capitol and Celebration of Healing, an eighteen-foot bronze in Monroe, Louisiana.
